Col. I. J. Young is in Washington official business.

President Arthur will leave Wash- ton August first, for a trip west. He visit the Yellowstone Park before turns.

Hon. E. W. M. Mackey passed thro' is city on Tuesday night last on his y to Charleston. He has been in City of Washington on official bu- ss. We were glad to see Mr, Mackey king well, and in good spirits

"Another man shot in the north," d poor Kingsbury is happy. He eds no medicine, but for an appeti- give him news of a few "darned ankees" being shot the day previous, d he lightens up with a smile on his e; he devours a calf, and then pro- eds to write up the shooting for the aders of the Star, and all is well.

HE AMENDE HONORABLE.

In our last issue the printer made us fer to the Times as "obscene," where- we said (ironically) "obscure. We so were made to spell metropolitan ith an i in second syllable; and still her mistakes of spelling occurred, hich we do not now recall. We wish say here, once for all, that the prin- is the author of all misprisions of at character, while everything that ight is ours.

We publish a communication from ilson, in this issue, that gives a very d outlook for law and order at that ace. We would be inclined to doubt but from the fact that the author is very conservative man, and one who exceedingly liberal in his views on litical matters, although a colored an. It is time for the people to see at such conduct as he describes will pay. Every man, regardless of lor, is entitled to the protection of e courts.

Hon. George C. Gorham, editor of National Republican, the Prince of wspaper writers, has returned to ashington after a month's recreation ong the eastern coast. We hope he been much improved by his trip, d that we may have the pleasure, for ny years, of reading his able edito- ls in the Republican. He is one of best friends the south ever had, th of the Potomac, and he has the ldness and ability to fight for and be invaluable service to us.

EMOCRACY AND PROHIBITION.

Those twin pets of bourbonism, pro- bition of liquor dealing and monopo- s for the rich have been simultane- ly and equally advanced by the re- t legislation of the General Assem- y of Democratic Missouri. It seems t the supreme court of the United ates has recently declared constitu- nal the license act there in force by ich the privilege of retailing cost ttle less than a thousand dollars an- ally. The promoters of the measure tter themselves that they have ex- pated "the low groggeries," but we cy that the main satisfaction con- ts in the anticipated good will (and fruits) of the lordly saloonists, who ve their poison out of cut glass and ver, and do not forget to reserve a ercules bowl" for their law-making ds. Meanwhile the petty village keeper who at least had hungry uths at home to plead the excuse of trade, is remanded to want or a rch for other employment, branded the stigma of an enemy of his d, while his bloated successor, who opened "the primrose path to the lasting bonfire" by rendering vice tive and "respectable" accumu- s his thousands and is honored as coadjutor of temperance and mo- ty for restraining vice within "de- t" bounds, and giving it the least ful development.

THE GEORGIA "IDEA."

"The Republican vote in Georgia is ing off. There are 1,215 convicts in penitentiary."—Charlotte Journal- rver.

Yes. And if the perjury of Demo- c judges and jurors could get them , they would soon have every Re- ican voter in the south in the same and think that in so foreswearing themselves they were doing God service. Yes; that's "the milk in the cocoanut," and we've seen it for a long time. The truth will crop out, and nothing is commoner than the Democratic formula for announcing a colored man's conviction of a larceny, "one Republican vote less." Fine joke that, and with an unusual spicing of truth. And yet the so called colored independents pretend that it is no concern of theirs whether the administration of the law is confided to Democrats or Republicans, so long as their race is forgotten in distributing public patronage. Beware, ye sold and bought panderers to the enemies of your race, who aid in bestowing power upon those who sent your fellows to the penitentiary to effectually stifle their voices as freemen!

STATE NEWS.

The press convention of the state is over, and now we may expect to read of it for the next three weeks.

The Robesonian has declared for Col. W. L. Sanders as the Democratic nominee for Governor in 1884. Who do you want nominated for congress, Mac?

Mr. C. E. Joplin, of the postoffice department, Atlanta, Ga., is visiting Miss A. E. Long and his friends at Concord, N. C. Mr. Joplin is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman.

There will be a re-union of ex-Confederates at Warrenton, N. C., on the tenth of August. Our popular Senator, M. W. Ransom, will deliver the address. We wish the boys a good time.

Dr. J. J. Mott is spending a few days at Morehead City for his health. The Democrats are always disturbed when they see the Doctor around; they are afraid of him, and well they may be.

Warren C. Coleman, Esq., is the largest merchant in the state who is a colored man. He does a successful business at Concord, N. C. He has money, a large credit, and stands high, at home, among business men.

City Items.

The rice crops are reported good in this section.

The bush meeting at Hilton will continue another week.

Carolina Yacht Club now numbers very near two hundred.

The new store next to First National Bank is rapidly going up.

Mr. Sol. Bear has placed a handsome front on his store on Market street.

The City Hall is being kept clean by the prisoners, under instructions from the Mayor.

It is reported that the friends of Maj. C. M. Stedman will run him for Lieut. Governor on the Democratic ticket in 1884.

Captain John L Boatwright has had a shed placed in front of his grocery store, over the side walk, on Front street.

We understand that the two cotton Compress Companies in this city have pooled their issues and will hereafter work in harmony.

Ex-Mayor Fishblate leaves here for a short trip to the northern watering places in a day or two. We wish him a pleasant journey and safe return.

Mr. E. E. Burruss, President of the First National Bank, of this city, left here on Wednesday for the White Sulphur Springs. Va. He goes from there to the Warm Springs in the same state.

Sheriff Manning has again left for a fishing expedition down the river. He proposes to make a week of it, and we sympathize with the fish, from the fact that the General is the great American fisherman. We know he will have a good time.

Mr. Henry E. Scott offered all of his real estate, in this city, at auction on Tuesday last. He did not succeed in selling, the prices offered not being sufficiently high to satisfy the owner. Mr. Scott intends to go west if he can sell his property in Wilmington for anything like its value.

Telegraph Operators all Over the Country Struck.

At 12 o'clock yesterday the telegraph operators all over the United States struck for higher wages and less hours. In New York City alone, over 600 telegraphers quit work. At the office in this city the Manager, Mr. Sterling, was the only man left in the office. When we called to interview him at 4 o'clock P. M., he was hard at work doing his very best to accommodate the business as much as it was possible. He was ably assisted by his clerk, Mr. Ed. Burkhimer and the boys. It looks as if the strike will be a long one.

Commodore Perry is growing fat and saucy since the Seaside Park has become such a very great watering place. He has all he can do; the visitors are crowding to this popular resort, but the old Commodore can always find room for one more. In fact he is bound to accommodate all who come; he does that well and to the satisfaction of his boaders.

A boy with a sling shot broke a costly pane of glass in a window in Mr. Honnett's house, which is being enlarged, a few days ago. The glass was 15 by 38, and the contractor paid $15 for it. We are pretty sure that he was neither a poor man's son or a little "nigger," or he would have been arrested and hauled up before the Mayor for being guilty of such outrageous conduct. No name.

A colored man by the name of Hooper, residing on the Cape Fear river, about fifteen miles above the city, in Brunswick county, went out to shoot a hawk a few days ago, and, while awaiting the appearance of his game, rested one of his hands directly over the muzzle of the gun, when his knee or some other object came in contact with the trigger and the weapon was discharged, the whole load of shot being driven through the palm of his hand and out at the back, tearing and lacerating the hand very badly. At last accounts the wound was doing much better than was expected.

Meeting of Board of Audit and Finance.

A regular meeting of the Board of Audit and Finance was held Monday evening last. Present, Mr. R. J. Jones, Chairman, and Messrs. Wm. Calder, W. R. Kenan and Jno. S. McEachern.

The salary of the City Attorney was increased to $500 per annum; to take effect from the date of election of the present incumbent.

The recommendation of the Board of Aldermen that the building now used as a market house, corner of Fifth and Castle streets, be rented by the city at $75 per annum, and that the building be put in proper condition for use—the stalls to be rented as provided in the market ordinance—was approved.

The petition of the Hibernian Association to be relieved of the payment of city tax for 1882, on the property recently purchased by the Association—on Third street opposite the City Hall—was granted.

The bond of John W. Perdew, as standard keeper, in the sum of $200, with Messrs. W. M. Poisson, H. Vollers and W. M. Parker as sureties, was approved and accepted.

The bond of John H. Pugh, as clerk of the market and cattle weigher, in the sum of $200, with T. P. Sikes, as surety, was presented, when it was declared to be the sense of the Board that there should be two sureties.

The bill of Richard B. Clowe, for furnishing 102 street signs, amounting to $65.32, was referred to the committee on Streets and Wharves of the Board of Aldermen, for approval.

The bill of R. H. Grant & Co., amounting to $60.25, for plumbing for the Fourth Street market house, was referred to the committee on Markets and Fees of the Board of Aldermen, for approval.

Mr. Kenan moved that the recent action of the Board in the matter of opening Chesnut street dock be reconsidered. The motion was adopted; Mr. Calder, of the Board, voting in the negative.

Mr. Jones then moved that the matter be referred back to the Board of Aldermen, with the request that estimates be furnished of the cost of demolishing the present wharf drawing the piling, cleaning out the dock, build necessary walls on three sides of the dock, and building an engine way on one side with slide for loading engines on flats, similar to the one now at said wharf. The motion was adopted.

Alderman Boney, chairman of the committee on Fire Department from the Board of Aldermen, appeared before the Board and presented a communication from Captain John L. Boatwright, chairman of a committee of the Wilmington Steam Fire Engine Company No. 1, addressed to Alderman Boney and making the following suggestions: That a new set of harness be purchased for the company's hose reel; that the horse be fed by the city.

Inasmuch as the recommendations of Captain Boatwright had not received the approval of the committee on Fire Department of the Board of Aldermen, and as the appropriation for the Fire Department as it now stands was approved by the Board of Audit and Finance upon the recommendation of the Board of Aldermen, it was suggested to Alderman Boney by Mr. Jones, that it would be proper before any alteration is made in the appropriation, that the request should emanate from the Board of Aldermen, and that the matter should be laid before the Board for its action. The Board then adjourned.

Captain E. J. Pennypacker is having his compress dock dredged out—preparing for large ships in the fall.

Some time in June last Mr. M. G. Chadwick's store, at Castle Hayne, in this county, was broken open and robbed of a number of articles. Recently a colored man by the name of Adam Green, who had been under suspicion, was arrested for stealing two silver watches from Mr. Chadwick and a razor from Mr. John Rogers, who occupied a room in Mr. C.'s store, which articles were disposed of in Pender county. Green was committed for preliminary examination, which took place before Justice Gardner. The articles were identified and the defendant was required to give a justified bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance at the next term of the criminal court.

Our old friend, Pat. H. Hayden, informs us that he will soon begin the erection of a large two story building, on his lot on Third street between Market and Princess streets, to be occupied by him as a carriage repository, wood shop, blacksmith shop, and harness shop. He is compelled to do this on account of his constantly increasing business; when finished it will be one of the largest, most convenient and comfortable workshops in the state. Hayden has an eye to the comfort of those employed by him, as well as to convenience and the outside appearance of things. He is prospering in this world's good's, and deserves to do so, for he does his work well, and on the principle of live and let live.

Wilmington & Coast Turnpike Co.

At the annual meeting of this company held in the hall of the Wilmington Library Association, Mr. A. Adrian was called to the chair in the absence of the President, Maj. C. M. Stedman, and Capt. John L. Wooster was made Secretary of the meeting.

The following gentlemen, the old officers, were re-elected for the ensuing year, viz:

President—Chas. M. Stedman.
Superintendent—Henry Haar.
Secretary and Treasurer—John L. Wooster.

The reports submitted show that the affairs of the Company are in an excellent and encouraging condition, so much so that a dividend of 5 per cent. on the capital stock of the Company was declared.

The President Draws $30,000 in the Lottery.

This would be the "BOSS" advertisement should the President on his visit to the Louisville Exposition purchase a ticket in the Commonwealth Distribution Co., there, and in witnessing the popular monthly drawing which takes place July 31st, see the number on his ticket pulled from the wheel with the $30,000 prize drawn to its number, or he might draw the $10,000, or $5,000 prizes, for there are 1,960 prizes to be drawn, amounting to $112-400. Tickets only cost $2 each. They can be obtained by addressing R. M. Boardman, Louisville, Ky.

Wilmington Library Association.

At a meeting of the newly elected Board of Directors of the Wilmington Library Association, held on last Saturday afternoon, Dr. Thomas F. Wood, the Vice President of the Association, presided in the absence of the President, Mr. Alex. Sprunt, who is now in Europe.

Mr. M. S. Willard was elected Secretary of the Association and Mr. W. M. Cumming was elected Treasurer.

The election of a Librarian was postponed. Capt. John L. Wooster having declined, we understand, a re-election.

The following is a correct list of the officers of the Association, with the exception of Libarian:

President—Alex. Sprunt.
Vice President—Thomas F. Wood.
Secretary—M. S. Willard.
Treasurer—W. M. Cumming.
Directors—Alex. Sprunt, Dr. Thomas F. Wood, Capt, John Cowan, G. H. Smith, M. S. Willard, Iredell Meares, James F. Post Jr. W. M. Cumming, Capt. W. R. Kenan.

Naval Stores Gone Up.

On Tuesday night last, quite a large fire took place in this city at the foot of Orange street. Some $20,000 worth of spirits, rosin and tar was destroyed. Of course the water was made sweeter by being mixed with some 30 or 40 hhds. of molasses.

The insurance on the property which suffered by the fire was distributed as follows:

Alfred Martin, frame warehouse on the wharf, $300 in the N. Y. Underwriters' Agency, represented by Messrs. DeRossett & Northrop; brick warehouse, $1,300 in the Home, of New York, Messrs. Northrop & Hodges.

Woody & Currie, on stock, principally naval stores, $7,000 in Lancashire and $4,000 in North American, represented by DeRosset & Northrop, and $2,500 in the City of London, and $2,500 in the Queen, represented by Messrs. Atkinson & Manning.

Kenan & Forshee, on salt, $200 in in North American. Loss about $750.

D. L. Gore, $500 in North American, $500 in the Pamlico, $500 in the Phœnix, of Brooklyn, and $1,000 in the London and Liverpool & Globe. Loss about $1,500 or $1,600.

A. Sprunt & Son had insurance to the amount of $20,000 in floating policies, as follows: $5,000 in the North American, $5,000 in the London & Liverpool & Globe, $5,000 in Scott's Union and National, and $5,000 in the Lancashire.

Paterson, Downing & Co. had insurance to the amount of $18,000 in floating policies. Loss about $2,500.

G. W. Willams & Co., frame warehouse, not insured. Their loss in naval stotes approximates $1,000, which was covered by insurance in the Home of New York, and the North British and Mercantile.

W. G. Fowler had $300 on his office and scales and Fowler & Morrison $1,700 on coal and wood. Loss not exceeding $100.

E. Kidder & Son, molasses, insured for $7,500 in the Imperial & Northern. Loss slight.

H. B. Eilers, $1,500 in Hartford.

Harding Johnson, $3,000 in the London & Liverpool & Globe.

The losses have not been definitely understood, but it is believed that they are fully covered by insurance in every case.

The Great Lottery War Over.

From this time on the Commonwealth Distribution Co. will withdraw from the foolish war waged by rival lottery companies, and attending to its own business leave the calling of fraudulent, &c., to them. The country is large enough for all, and this war has caused the new Postmaster General to call these lottery companies "illegal and frauds" and deny them the use of the registered mails. The C. D. Co., by their fair manner of drawings, hope to merit patronage without saying anything evil against other companies. "Live and let live" will henceforth be their motto. On July 31st, in Louisville, Ky., the next drawing takes place with a capital prize of $30,000 and numerous other large prizes, as tickets cost only $2 each, everybody should have one, including their rivals, as they would be overjoyed by returning them "good for evil" by seeing them draw a BIG PRIZE. Address R. M. Boardman, Louisville, Ky.

THE WILMINGTON POST.

W. P. CANADAY, Proprietor.

WILMINGTON, N. C.,
FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1883.

LAWYER'S BULL AND FARMER'S OX,

In the year just past no term was too opprobious for the Independent Democrats who coalesced with the Republicans to overthrow the dominion of the bourbon dynasty in North Carolina. Would mortal ever have thought to see these political Pharisees engaged in exactly such an alliance—only more so—as the one so recently and unsparingly reprobated by them? Yet such is the fact. According to the Journal-Observer of Charlotte: "A Times Democrat, Canton, Miss., special says: 'The Democrats and Republicans of that county held a convention yesterday, and ratified a fusion of the two parties to defeat the Independent ticket.'" The offices were prospectively divided between the two wings. Verily, verily, the ownership of the gored ox makes all the difference. By the way, the Independents must be "coming," indeed, when the Democrats condescend to unite with the vile Republicans for the sake of victory. When a party itself combines with those whom it has heretofore denounced as exemplifying all that is vicious in doctrine and corrupt in practice, and actually aids in conferring upon them half the public offices, for the purpose of retaining the other moity of the spoils, with what grace can it condemn its individual members for seeking to work out their convictions by associations outside the pale of party?

BRAZEN EFFRONTERY.

The newspaper of the day which fails to depict the latest dallyings and disportings of the festive Freddie, and his no less festive Lilly, is at a discount in the fashionable world. Does this indicate a degeneracy in public taste and morals, or is it the expression of mere thoughtlessness. We would fain believe the latter. But it is time that there was a reawakening of a counter and a correcting sentiment. "Another sinning on such highs" as Mr. Gebhardt and his Flower of Jersey had long ere now been taught by sad experience that there is a law in this land, framed in the interest of decency, if not religion, which says to vice, "go play the wanton if you cannot retain, in secret places, fitting to the deed; at least you shall not flaunt your harlotry where virtue's cheek will blush to look upon you, and where the frail and unwary are a ready prey to your wiles! But has it not come to pass in this boasted land of equality that the little finger of the money king is thicker than the loins of the law? Else how does this married woman desert her husband, cross the Atlantic safely, travel over the country with a distinguished roue, and cohabit with him in private residence occupied only by those two? Would not any judge sustain a conviction of fornication and adultery on such facts? Perchance the fair Lilly may be like that exquisite species of the flower whose name she bears, so beautifully described by Hawthorne as deriving its nourishment and expanding into its charming maturity from the same black slimy mud-soil which imparts a noxious and repulsive life to other rank and unlovely plants, which spring up by its side like tares around the wheat. But it is difficult to restrain our skepticism as to a virtue whose associations are all the usual concommittants of wickedness—and to speak in plain words, it would gratify us no little to see the delicate sybarites in the vulgar clutch of the law, on a a charge of adulterous cohabitation.

THE HEBREW.

There is scarcely a day that passes in which a person may not hear the name of the Hebrews coupled with some contemptuous expression; not as regards their faith, but as to their moral qualities and business methods. It seems that the prejudices of past ages regarding the Hebrew are never to die, that the name of a Jew is to be handed down as synonomous with all that is cunning and low. This is not fair, it is not civilization, it is not in consonance with the enlightenment of the nineteenth century, it is a judgment based upon the exception in Hebrew character and not upon the rule, it is frequently the breathing of a prejudice that has been handed down from generation to generation, and that had its beginning in the mist shrouded ages of ignorance and superstition which the sun rays of a later civilization have not yet succeeded in dissipating.

Persecuted and vilified for ages on ages, we find a nation of scholars, poets, and warriors scattered throughout the earth, with the hand of the entire human family raised against them, and no power but the "God of Israel" to look to for protection. Unable by reason of this bitter prejudice to compete with their fellow man for the higher prizes in the lottery of life, we find the Hebrew doing what any people of their intelligence under the same circumstances would have done, viz: turning their talent into the only channel open to them, traffic and making an occupation that was looked down upon in contemptuous scorn, the lever that alone raised the shield of protection over them and their faith.

For hundreds of years the Hebrew walked the streets of European cities with his eyes bent to the ground, scorned and despised of men, his strongly marked features bearing that furtive gloomy look handed down from the persecuted generations that had preceded him; patriarchal now as when, in the glorious splendor of Jerusalem he gathered his family at night about him; frugal now, where once lavish and ostentatious; morose, where once cheerful; ground between the nether mill stones of prejudice and hate, but one outlook presented itself, this was worldly gain. To be rich was to be able to buy off his persecutors; to be rich might be life to him and his. As civilization advanced the power of money increased, the Hebrew began to appreciate the advantages of this power, and all other avenues being closed to them they, for generations, were a nation of shop keepers and money lenders. Yet even in these lowly walks of life the old fire would, in spite of thousands of years of repression, break forth, and the civilized world would open its eyes in wonder at a Mendelsohn, a D'Israeli, or a Benjamin.

When by frugality and self abnegation the Hebrew succeeded where his more indulgent christian brother failed it was attributed to "Jew luck," when by dint of a life time of unremitting toil, he left a fortune to his children he was credited with having attained his money by some mysterious and often dishonest means. But we are glad to be able to say that a better state of feeling toward the Hebrew is rapidly developing, as he rises from the shop counter to the counting room, from the money changer to the banker. When we see him in the higher walks of mercantile life, and meet him in the professions, when we see such types as Benjamin, Jonas and Yulee, in our country and D'Israeli and others in Europe, when on closer acquaintance we find old mother nature as strong in him as in others, when we find him law abiding, peaceable, neighborly, benevolent, thrifty and industrious, when we find all these good qualities in many of which we ourselves are deficient, then it is time that this narrow minded, unchristian, unjust prejudice should be laid aside and in place of standing with idle hands envying him in his success in life we should pattern after his energy and thrift, and endeavor to cultivate those pleasant and friendly relations, which are the best means of disabusing the mind of error.

THE CITY CASES.

The cases of which Stewart Ellison vs. the City of Raleigh et al, is a representative one have been decided by his Honor, Judge Philips, just exactly as we anticipated; for it is a well known peculiarity of this class of litigation, that the opinion of the Judge as an exponent of the law almost invariably coincides with his individual predilections. Making no pretentions to legal knowledge, we do not presume to question the correctness of this decision, but if we are rightly informed as to the principles upon which this adjudication was based, they certainly present to the lay mind some curious anomalies. His Honor is reported as holding that the contest was virtually a suit for a municipal office, and hence the claimant should have resorted to a quo warranto, as the only appropriate remedy. Now, if we have caught the meaning of our lawyer friends of whom we have sought an explanation of this matter, a profitable public office is private property, as our supreme court held years ago in an old case, known as "Hoke vs. Henderson," we think. Yet strange to say, in a similar case quite recently decided, it is held that the title to such an office can only be settled by quo warranto proceedings in which the Attorney General is a necessary party, for the reason that the investigation is a matter of public concern, in which the state should be represented by its constitutional adviser. This all would seem to be inconsistent enough, but, to "cap the climax," somebody, at a recent session of the legislature, procured the passage of a bill to render it obligatory upon the Attorney General, in every case to allow the name of the state to be used by the claimant, upon his giving bond as to indemnify the state from costs. So, we now have this condition of the law: The claimant of a public office must bring quo warranto to enable the state to take a hand, in order to protect the public interest—and for that reason alone—and yet her legal adviser is deprived of all discretion in the premises. At least, so Judge Philips holds. Truly these lawyers and legislators "have sought out many inventions."

Twinkle, twinkle little Star,
None can wonder what you are.

Truly may it be said to your honor that you cast no dim, uncertain rays, but those of such fixed, unvarying quality as leave you without a fellow in the murky Democratic firmament. But, to drop all figures, we wish to say, that while we disagree [illegible] with the editor of the Star, we [illegible] the [illegible] which marks all his writings on [illegible] subjects, than the outspoken and fearless honesty with which he treats the great questions of the day. No tariff for revenue, with incidental protection for him; but a tariff for revenue only, standing firmly on the old Democratic principle that tariff looks to nothing for its regulation but the estimated expenses of government, to which end, alone it can be laid and appropriated, he disdains any side glances at the result upon the industries of the country. If they are to be fostered by government let us go straightly and boldly to work, and scorn this sneaking indirection. Again, if the Democrats are resolved to stultify themselves and cast a slur on their free trade record, of which they lately were so proud, and in their truckling to expediency, elevate to the speakership a northern protectionist, let them at least have the honest pluck to acknowledge him for what he is. Mr. Randall, says the Star, despite all his love for the south, refused by his vote to relieve our people from the rate on cotton ties, and allied himself, as he always does on economical issues, with northern capital and northern interest. Vote for Randall, who antagonizes you on the one only plank of principle left in your decaying and dismembered platform, and against your own southern Carlisle, whose interest and principles are identical with yours; but have the spirit of manliness and truth within you enough to acknowledge it. So says the Star, in substance, and so say we.

THE OHIO DEMOCRATS.

If compelled to mortify the New York Herald by taking a different view as to the desirability of public debates by candidates, we are glad to give it the encouragement of our approval when it holds such language as the following:

"If the Democratic party is going to face two ways on this (the tariff) question, or on any other dispute between the two parties, it will make itself ridiculous and contemptible. If the Democratic leaders imagine that they are going to carry the presidency without showing their hands, without telling the people what they will do with it if they get it, then we believe they are repeating the same silly mistake which lost them the election in 1880. [illegible] Their opponents are sufficiently outspoken. The Republicans are united for a continuance of the high protective policy. Do the Democrats imagine that they can secure majorities in opposition to [illegible] by [illegible] avoiding the discussion of the question? They should not so deceive themselves; they cannot [illegible] the tariff from this year's or next year's canvass, because the Republicans will not let them."

RALEIGH, N. C., July 12, 1883.

COL. CANADAY:—In a former communication I foreshadowed (in speaking of our city muddle, which I am sure your readers have not forgotten) the action of the court in the matter of Ellison vs City Board of Aldermen and W. H. Dodd, Mayor(?). Yesterday his Honor, Judge Phillips, after hearing the [illegible], ruled that a [illegible] was not the proper proceeding, but the matter must be decided by quo warranto, and the court in the exercise of its discretion dismissed the action at this stage of the proceedings and discharged the jury.

I shall not detail, again, the [illegible] by eight aldermen aided by W. H. Dodd, who gave the casting vote [illegible]

The last [illegible] of our city was [illegible]

For the plaintiff, Messrs. Merrimon, Fowle and Argo were the leading speakers. Judge Merrimon delivered a long and able speech, as did also Colonel Argo. Judge Fowle closed the argument in one of the most eloquent, convincing and unanswerable arguments (occupying in so doing six hours) I have ever heard from his lips. He [illegible] the Democratic party, and sent conviction to the hearts of many Democrats, who gave vent to their feelings by openly declaring "they would never again vote the Democratic ticket."

The street talk is Judge Fowle's speech [illegible] the breach which it has created between him and the Democratic party will scarcely ever be bridged over.

This case, if properly placed before the voters of North Carolina in the great campaign of 1884, will give North Carolina to the Republican party by thirty thousand majority.

The question now is, "can the Republican party [illegible] justice before our courts?" It really seems in the face of success that our Democratic friends can find, on all occasions, some technicality in the law by which they may dodge the [illegible] verdict and still win.

Let me tell you, Colonel, there was a [illegible]

A TRIP IN A BALLOON.

Details of the Voyage of M. L'Hoste Across the English Channel.

A correspondent of the London Telegraph sends the following from Brussels: M. L'Hoste, a young man of engaging manner, I found to-day looking very pale and fatigued from the peril to which he had so recently been exposed. He is suffering most from giddiness, but hopes that a day's rest will set him up again. As soon as his health shall be quite restored, he assured me with much earnestness that he will make another attempt to cross the channel, and expressed himself confident of ultimate success. M. L'Hoste said that after various preliminary trips last week, in connection with his friend M. Eby, he determined to make the attempt to reach England on Friday evening, having a predilection for night trips. When the time for starting approached, however, his companion thought the weather looked too threatening for aerial navigation, and energetically endeavored to dissuade him from his purpose, but without success. M. Eby's refusal to encourage his rashness by accompanying him had no effect upon his obstinate resolution to make the trip. Accordingly at midnight on Friday the balloon Pilastre de Rozier cast off and rapidly ascended.

"Almost immediately the weather, which had been hazy all the evening, set in very thick, the result being that L'Hoste passed the night in the mist of a fog, which not only chilled him to the marrow, but prevented him drifting or even if he were moving at all. However, the weather cleared on Saturday morning, when, to his no small disgust, he found himself out at sea, in the neighborhood of Cape Gris Nez. He at once threw out ballast in order, if possible, to find a favorable current and soon rose to a height of 4,000 meters at which altitude he suffered severely, his face being half roasted by the heat of the sun, while his feet were numbed and almost frozen. Two hours later he found himself over a town of some sort, and, drawing the valve line, descended rapidly [illegible] on the esplanade at Dunkirk. Being determined to [illegible], he quietly took breakfast [illegible] by a gaping crowd, and afterward [illegible] his store of ballast [illegible] and rose gradually to a height of 6,000 meters.

Whenever an individual or a party foolishly concludes that he or it is alone the salt of the earth, the embodiment of all that is great and good and glorious, and that all else is trash, is bad and little and groveling, the end of that individual or party is near at hand. Not even the most illiterate classes can stand self-righteousness or self praise. The Pharisee is an natural anomaly that excites universal condemnation and contempt. Even of its kind it is detested. The mongrel Democracy of to-day is as self-righteous as the Pharisee of old, and seems not to know that this claim is a symptom of decay and a forerunner of certain dissolution. Whenever a class, individual, or party, gets better than another class, individual, or party, in this Democratic country, the time has come for it to die. It loses its Democracy, its power to enlist the public confidence, and no respect is shown it except what it gives to itself. Self-righteousness killed the old Federal party, it killed the old Whig party, it killed the Prohibition party in this state, and is now killing the latter day Democracy more rapidly than cholera is killing the denizens of the Nile.—Salisbury Examiner, Independent Democratic.

If such men are permitted by us to govern and control, it neither takes political sagacity nor prophetic wisdom to tell the tale of the party in 1884. How can we succeed if we are not united? How can we succeed with a high protective tariff man as the central figure of the Democracy? It is a historical fact, which no man can successfully controvert, that the Democratic party for the past fifteen years has been led by time servers, policy men, expediency men, ambitious men without patriotism or other laudable motive.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Et tu Brute? Just what we have been telling our readers, lo, these many years. But the editor of the Commonwealth is in danger. The tools of the ring will be charging the editor with having been bought out, and with wanting office. This, is the argument of the subsidized tools of power and the pets of the Machine. The Commonwealth, however, speaks the solemn truth that no honest man can deny. A set of place-hunters are governing the people to-day.—Salisbury Examiner.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1883.

THE DANGER OF OVER-EXERTION.

A Stalwart Man Becomes Weaker Than a Child and Then Recovers his Former Strength.

(Waterloo N. Y. Observer.)

In these days of rowing giants and athletic heroes fine physical development is more observed than ever before since the time of the Athenian games. A man who shows the elements of physical power is looked up to far more than in the days of our ancestors possibly because there are fewer specimens of well-developed manhood than then. An emissary of this paper met a magnificent specimen of physical power a few days since in the person of Dr. A. W. McNames, of Waterloo. His muscles, which showed unusual development, were as hard as wood. At his request the writer sought to pinch him in the arms or legs, but found it wholly impossible. A realization of what is meant by an iron man was fully made manifest.

"Have you always been so stalwart as this?" inquired the news gatherer.

"Not by any means," was the reply. "When a young man I was always strong and active and felt that I could accomplish anything. This feeling so took possession of me on one occasion that I attempted to lift a box which four men found it impossible to move. I succeeded in placing it on the wagon, but in two minutes from that time I was unconscious and remained so for hours and when I recovered consciousness I vomited a large quantity of blood. From that day I began to grow weak and sickly. I believed that I had suffered some internal injury and experienced a general debility which seemed similar to the effects produced by malaria. My back was very weak. I had no appetite, and at times loathed food. My lips were parched and cracked. My head felt as though it were entirely open at the top and it pained me on the side intensely. In six weeks' time I had fallen away from 208 pounds to less than 170. I was in a most wretched condition. I was completely discouraged."

"What did the doctors say about you?"

"Almost everything. I consulted no less than six different physicians. They all treated me and none did me any good. At that time I was suffering intensely. I could not sit upright but was obliged to rest in a cramped, uneasy position. I was compelled to urinate every five minutes and I passed over three quarts every day. I was not living, I was existing.

One night (how well I remember it) my wife had put the children all to bed when the feeling came over me that I should live but a very short time. My wife and I talked matters all over and I gave the minutest directions as to what she should do after I was gone. I was not in a flighty condition by any means for the doctor, on leaving town the day following, bade me good bye, saying he never expected to see me again, for I was suffering with Bright's disease of the kidneys in its last stages. Within the next few days more than twenty friends came to bid me good bye. Among the number was Dr. John L. Clark. He asked me what I had used in the way of medicines. I told him. He then recommended a remedy of which I had heard much, but about which I was very skeptical. If faith were an element of power it certainly was lacking in my case."

"And so you did not try it?"

"On the contrary, I did try it and to my surprise it seemed to go to just the spot. Indeed, it was the most palatable thing I had taken into my mouth for months. I relished it."

"And did it cure you?"

"Do I look as if it did?"

"Yes, indeed. What was it?"

"Warner's Safe Cure."

"A proprietary medicine?"

"Of course. What of that? I suppose I once had as great a prejudice against advertised medicines as any one could have. When I was studying medicine at Ann Arbor, Michigan, I used to vow with the rest of the class that we would fight all such remedies at all times. When a man comes down to the last hour, however, and bids his wife and friends good bye, such bigoted prejudices as those all vanish, I can assure you and any remedy that can cure is gladly welcomed."

"And how have you been since then?"

"As well—or better, than before."

"Do you still exert your strength?"

"Certainly. But I do not over-exert, as formerly. My strength is increasing every day, and my health is number one. I know that my life was saved by Warner's Safe Cure, and I believe it is the best medicine that was ever compounded by any chemist or physician. I am willing the doctors should sneer at me for such a statement if they choose, but I have proven its truth and am prepared to stand by it."

The above experience should be of great value to all who are suffering. It shows the deceptive nature of this terrible malady; that all symptoms are common to it and that there is but one way by which it can be absolutely avoided.

How to Treat a Drunken Man.

A man who is thoroughly drunk needs as much good treatment as any other who from different causes is unable to take care of himself. His temperature is lowered and he is liable when in such condition to contract disease, especially pneumonia. He should be put to bed and kept warm instead of being locked up in a cell. Of course it does not seem just, according to the common way of looking at the matter, to treat a man well who has voluntarily placed himself in such a state; but, when you think that life may be at stake, it does not seem so unreasonable. A drunken man is almost invariably in a condition to contract pneumonia, the worst form of this disease being alcoholic pneumonia, and very few of these cases recover. The police should at least see that such a person is kept warm and not suffered to lie in the wet and cold.—Dr. A. E. Nicols.

Democratic in politics, the OBSERVER will labor, first of all, to assure the prosperity of the town of Fayetteville, to develop the vast agricultural resources of its own and the neighboring counties, and to promote all that concerns the welfare of the people of North Carolina.

Opposed to such innovations on the honest ways of our fathers as, in the guise of progress, harm society, the OBSERVER will be found in full sympathy with the new things born of the changed condition of the south which sound judgment or enlightened experience find to be also good.

As to the rest: it will strive to deserve the reputation of the name it inherits.

Justice in Wilson County.

EDITOR OF THE POST:

Allow me a small space in your valuable paper, to call the attention of your many readers to the state of affairs which really exist in Wilson. You are aware of the murder of Cary Hill, during 1881, and the failing of the Governor of the state and the Mayor of Wilson to offer any reward for the arrest of the murderer. Since that time another colored man has been shot dead—(although this was not done without provocation). The man who was shot was known to be a bad man when under the influence of liquor, but the defendant could have defended himself in a different manner, than to have taken the life of the man, whose life was as dear to him as was the life of the man who took it. I deprecate the idea of men, white or black, being shot down like dogs, in a civilized country, before which we have courts of justice to make our complaints. It is a common saying in this country, that a colored man gets but little consideration before the courts, and especially in the inferior courts. The last man who shot a negro was excused on the ground of self-defense, although I heard a citizen say that the man was shot dead while running.

The latest act of injustice was the putting in jail of four colored men. Here are the facts in the case: On Monday morning a drunken colored man was disturbing the town ordinance by using profane language in a certain portion of Wilson, which is nearly surrounded by bar-rooms, and a policeman by the name of Windborne attempted to arrest him, when the drunken man turned to go in another direction, but was too drunk to run, whereupon Windborne struck him twice with his club, knocking him down. Several colored men standing near, who had an interest in humanity, went to Windborne and commanded him not to strike the drunken man again, and in order to prevent his striking him again one of the colored men grabbed Windborne's stick out of his hand, while a few other men took the drunken man and carried him off; but neither of the men struck the policeman, but told him that he should not strike the drunken man any more, and for saying this and taking the drunken man away, these men were put under a justified bond of two hundred dollars each. From the wound that the drunken man received by the policeman's club, I truly believe, had he been struck again, it would have killed him.

I do not pretend to encourage resistance of an officer of the law, but any officer who strikes a citizen, almost a deadly blow who is unable to flee from him, and who without resisting the officer by fighting, and who could make the arrest by using less deadly means is not fit to serve as an officer of the law.—These men who went to the rescue of their drunken friend now lay in jail, at the expense of the tax payers of the county, and their friends can do them no good. The white citizens will not take them out, and the few white citizens who attempted to take them out were prevented or rather persuaded not, because the colored men meddled with a white officer of the law, and the bond is so great that the colored men's friends cannot stand it. All of this is done because these colored men interfered with a white officer. These men's bond are as large as if they had committed murder; the bond of Hill's murderer was put at $200. Where is justice and equality before the law? Shall a man be punished before the law according to the nature of the crime he commits, or according to his color? Shall one class of citizens be punished by the law and unlimited immunity be given to the other?

Mr. editor, the colored citizens in Wilson long to see the time when justice will recognize them as men and citizens before the law, and look at them with an impartial eye and deal with them according to the nature of the crime and not according to the complexion of the person on whom the crime is committed. I long to see the day when the spark of prejudice shall cease to burn in the breast of the white man against the colored man. We have come here to stay. Providence has placed us here together and the better we like each other the better it will be for all. Let the colored man and the white man forget the accidental difference in the color of their skin, and move on in one common effort to make Wilson county the most prosperous county for all men regardless of color in North Carolina, and let the courts be so guided by justice as to give to every citizen alike who violates their laws, equality of punishment.

Yours,

L. N. Hill.

Tariff Decisions,

The Treasury department has issued a circular to customs officers which is regarded as important in its explanations of the new tariff act where conflicting rates of duty are found to be applicable to the same articles. The circular, which has reference particularly to the duties on manufactures of flax not enumerated in the new tariff is as follows:

The following provisions are found in schedule J of the tariff of March 3, 1883:

"Brown and bleached linens, ducks, canvas paddings, cot bottoms, diapers, crash, huckabacks, handkerchiefs, lawns or other manufactures of flax, jute, or hemp, or of which flax, jute, or hemp shall be the component material of chief value, not especially enumerated or provided for in this act, 35 per cent. ad valorem."

"Flax or linen thread, twine and pack thread, and all manufactures of flax, or of which flax shall be the component material of chief value, not especially enumerated or provided for in this act, 40 per centum ad valorem."

"For manufactures of flax not enumerated there would thus appear to be two provisions, one fixing the rate at 35 per cent. and the other at 40 per cent. ad valorem."

The department holds that the provisio first cited was designed more especially to embrace textile fabrics, and that all textile fabrics, named therein, and all others of the same general character, are dutiable thereunder at 35 per cent., while manufactures not enumerated in said act, which assimilate to flax or linen thread, twine and pack-thread, as well as those articles themselves, are dutiable under the provision last quoted at 40 per cent. This is in accordance with the general principles by which tariff laws are interpreted.

Consistency must be given to the various provisions of the tariff as far as practicable, and the provision in section in section 2499, of said tariff "if two or more rates of duty should be applicable to any imported article it shall be classifified for duty under the highest of such rates," is not to be applied where, in a case like the present, a consistent effect can otherwise be given to each of two provisions which may appear to conflict.
